STUDENT VOICES

I think making a respectful environment at school will be a good way to improve agency at schools where every student is respected equally.

I think that having students meet with an advisor for a one-on-one check in to see how someone is doing is the best way to improve a sense of belonging and agency.

All graduates will need to have a positive mindset and goal-setting to be better prepared and thrive in their lives/careers

All graduates will need to have a hardworking and passionate mindset as well as doing what they want and also knowledge of school and a good education. People need to always be working hard in life and especially in their careers.

Adults would need to have a sense of understanding with little judgment while also leading them in the right direction and being able to do the best that they can for their future graduates

They will need to help out all and any students that will be seeking help and will need to guide those students. The adult also needs to be a really good role model towards the graduate and show them the right path
